Academia\FrontEnd\HTML\403 Error Page.html

```
<!--
Harshul Gupta, Lawrence Mao, Suengho Kim, Dmitrii Buianov
CS50 C Project
Academia
November 1, 2026
-->

<!-- We declare the document type using DOCTYPE so the web browser knows to render this file as an HTML5 document -->
<!DOCTYPE html>
<html>
<head>
    <!-- We use the title tag to show the specific name of the page on the browser tab -->
        <title>Academia - Error</title>
    <!-- We link our external CSS stylesheet using href so this page inherits the same design rules as the rest of Academia -->
        <link rel="stylesheet" href="../CSS/Academia.css">
</head>
<body>
    <!-- We create a navbar div container to display our header branding and navigation options -->

            <h2>Academia</h2>
            <!-- We use an anchor tag with an href link so users can easily click and go back to the landing page -->
            Home

    <!-- We create an error-box div container to center the error graphic and return button on the screen -->

            <!-- We use an img tag to display the error image, and we use the onerror event handler to automatically fallback to a secondary directory if the original file path fails to resolve -->
            <img src="../Images/403Error.png" onerror="this.src='images/403Error.png'; this.onerror=null;" alt="Error"class="error-img">

        <!-- We use an anchor tag styled as a home button to give users a clear way back to the landing page -->

            Back to Landing Page

    <!-- We create a footer div container at the bottom of the page to display our institutional motto -->
    EDUCATION TODAY. A BRIGHTER TOMORROW.
</body>
</html>
```